EDUCATIONAL COLUMN, By Geunty Supt. L. R. Clark

Normal Institute July 29-August If calls for courses of study and inquiries for board and rooms indi-cate anything the nineteenth session will be larger than any since the boom days of '86 and '87.

A study room will be provided at the schoolhouse for the use of the nor-mal students. There has been some complaint heretofore that the study room was a talking and laughing room. Members of the faculty will see to it that this is not the case this year. Students who wish to visit and talk when classes are in session will find a pleasant place under the shade trees in the yard.

Persons who wish assistance in securing board or rooms during the institute should write or call upon the superintendent several days before the session begins. It is not always possible to find a satisfactory board-ing place upon short notice. Time was when unfurnished rooms in Kin-sley could be secured for little or no rent, and every third family would take boarders, but those days have passed away, and now when teachers wages are higher and terms longer student should be willing to pay reasonable rates when attending Normal.

Commissioners' Proceedings.

The county commissioners met in adjourned session last Friday.

J. J. Cocker's petition to vacate the angling road across his land was considered, and Heath, Ostrander and Spring were appointed viewers. This is the old trail southwest from the Columbia school house and has been fenced up for some time.

The viewer's report on the F. W. Charlet road was approved and the road established.

John Zimmett's petition to vacate the old Sun City trail across section 19 was considered and Marshall, Pierce and McClaren appointed view-ers. The trail cuts off the southwest corner of the section.

E. P. Shepherd's petition Kinsley, Kansas.
the road along the west side of the southwest quarter of section 32 was southwest quarter of section 32 was taken up and M. Parkhurst, J. Taylor and J. Hayes were appointed viewers.

R. E. Edwards' offer of $400 to settle the taxes against the old mill and elevator property was accepted. The total amount charged against the property was about $1000. The compayable at the call of the committee, missioners concluded it was this or nothing.

Wolfe, Hetzel and Boyer were Wolfe, Hetzel and Boyer were appointed to inquire into the feasibility and expense of building a hard dirt road through the sandhills south of Lewis. This commission was appointed under the provisions of a law passed by Senator Smith which authorizes the county commissioners to levy a tax for such roads whenever in their judgement it is advisable. This would be a short road and the expense probably not very great.

Curran Replies to Albaugh,

Topeka, Kansas, July 6. - Secretary John Curran of the populist state committee today mailed to Chairman Mort Albaugh of the republican state committee the following reply to the latter's invitation to the populists to join the republican party:

"I have read with much interest your kind invitation to the populist party to join the republican party. I feel, of course, that your effort was to furnish some copy to the newspapers for hot weather consumption and also from a little natural and forgivable from a little natural and forgivable weakness of your part to appear as a humorist. I assure you that your invitation is funny. The only trouble in the matter is to tell whether the joke is on you or the republican party. The one fault one might find with it is that you did not caution us not to all come at once. You ought to give your people time to shove over and make room for the crowd.

"I agree with you fully that in these

"I agree with you fully that in these piping times of addresses, manifestos and whereases that go to round ou the sum of political joy vouchsafed to the rather lonely and neglected fate weav-ers for mankind one must not let the other fellow enjoy all the pleasure of being in the lime light and so I find no fault with you for breaking in in the manner you did. While the news-paper correspondents were spending whole galleys of glory on this expon-ent of populism it is too bad that you were forgotten and I should have of-fered to divide honors before. How-ever, it is not too late to do the right thing by you and I now offer you the opportunity of your lifetime to add to the lustre of your lately bedimmed, and at the same time to add to the gayety of nations and the populist party. I hereby challenge you to a joint debate to be held at some time before the first of September, 1901, in the auditorium at Topeka on the following question: "Resolved, that the people's party should join the republican party. "I may be pardoned if I take the negative side of the question. This will give you an opportunity to show the w llful populists the error of their ways and demonstrate to a waiting world what a wonderful thing the re-

The beauties of government by cor-poration are fully appreciated in Topeka where for five years the people have been trying to get from under the heel of the waterworks corporation and are apparently no nearer out than when they began to kick.

Under the title of "Summer Tours" the Santa Fe has issued a neat little pamphlet full of information as to rates and routes to almost all points. It can be had of any station agent. Any person contemplating a summer crip for either business, pleasure or health should consult this booklet.

Another populist judge has shown the cloven hoof by interfering with vested rights. Judge Madden, of Emporia, has taken the ice trust in that city by the throat and fixed a scale of prices. The ice men will probably go into the supreme court and show that Madden's order is "unconstitutional." What will benefit the public is wrong, that which will benefit a corporation is right, according to the republican interpretation of our constitution.

Last winter the legislature of Arkansas passed a liquor license law that was a corker. It makes a man who wants to drink take out a liceuse for five dollars per year; without this he cannot buy a drop, and has no right to get drunk. The republican editors of this state have been so pleased with Mort Albangh's invitation to the populists to join his party that we print the foregoing so that our readers may have an idea of the way the matter is viewed by the populists. We would naturally suppose that the republicans would give the same prominence to Curran's reply that they did to the invitation—but they are not built that way.

Another organized effort is being the man who sells should pay for protection than the man who drinks. It of does not the "good book" say that the tempted is as bad as the tempter? In Kansas at man cannot seil liquor unless somebody wants to buy. The law prohibits the jointist from going out and lassoeing the man and pouring the liquor down him. According to our law it is no crime to buy but a crime to sell. Make the fellow take out a license to buy, pay for the privilege of taking on a "jag" and protect him in it. We understand that the Lawrence city council is preparing ordinances, exact copies of the Kansas state laws on the liquor question.
